

SOUTH BEND, Ind. Sept. 21.—A session was being here when the Grand Jury returned an indictment against E. H. Andrews of Boston, charging him with a conspiracy to defraud the United States of the Warren Building Company of Boston to secure contracts with the city of South Bend for laying pavement, at a cost of $225,000.

The charge against Andrews is made by a grand jury composed of 12 members. Andrews offered him $500 for his vote for contracts which would favor acceptance of the plan.

CHAMPS RETURN TO THE BROWNS

CHAMPS ARE HOME FOR SEASON'S FINAL GAMES

Jimmy Collins's Boston Champions return here today for the final games of the season. The Browns will be the first team played, while the Highlanders will be the last to visit the Huntington avenue grounds. The Hub team has fifteen regularly scheduled games here, while the postponed games, allowing one or two games for bad weather, may bring the total of games as high as twenty-two. The Browns will probably play two double-headers, which leaves one game unplayed. Chicago follows the Mount City team. The latter has three double headers carded, as one of the games scheduled here was played off in Chicago. Then there is a tie game, which will probably go unplayed. The Tigers and Indians come after the White Sox. Then Griffin's aggregation wind up the season here with four games.

After a successful trip to Philadelphia and Washington the Boston Champions returned to this city early today. The Boston club was one out of five games from the Athletics, but managed to take four out of five from the Senators. Two games were lost to the Mount City team by one run, while the Washingtons fell easy victims to the all-around star play of the Hub team.

The Boston will open up with the Browns, and then come the other Westerners. The Highlanders will be the last to ever have to mark the closing of the local season. Later the season.

Boston Team in Good Shape.

The Boston team is in much better shape now than when they were last seen in this city. The young pitchers are showing to good advantage. NATIONAL LEAGUE UP SEASON HERE

In a blaze of glory the Boston Nationals closed up the local season yesterday by winning the first game and taking the second battle with the Brooklins. Young was in the box in the first contest and Wilhelm twisted the second, which lasted only seven innings.

AL KAUFMAN HAS ABOUT

Special to the Boston American. NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 21.—Al Kaufman, A. C. has arranged a contest between Al Kaufman, the new professional heavyweight, and Harry Sawyer, a well known local pugilist. The affair will take place on the evening of September 28. The articles call for a contest of twenty rounds or less at catchweight.

Kaufman has been taken to bed by Billy Delaney, who developed both Corbett and Jeffries.

FIRST FOOTBALL GAME

NEWTON, Mass., Sept. 21.—In a heavy drizzle the first football game of the season was played here today. The Newton High School eleven, 12 to 0, on Sawyer field. Good playing was out of the question on account of the rain. Williams was too heavy for the big school boys.

Italian Hawthorne, the noted writer, continues his articles on muscular development in next Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN. These articles are attracting wide attention. Be sure and read next Sunday's installment.

HUGHES AND BARRY, TWO NEW PITCHERS OF BOSTON CHAMPS

Barry is a tall, rangy fellow, who has an abundance of speed and curves. With a little more experience he is likely to prove an acquisition.

Hughes came mighty near shutting out the Senators yesterday. He allowed them but five hits. As in his game with the Athletics he used great headwork and a puzzling change of pace.

Five Dollars May Win a Husband in Novel Raffle Plan

Broker Also Offers Consolation Prize to Losers

ADDER: do you wish to marry?

Are you willing to pay five dollars for a chance on a husband, who, on his own showing, is a perfect paragon of all that a man and a husband should be?

A man, who evidently believes that marriage is a lottery, and has hit upon the novel expedient of acquiring a wife and a fortune at the same time, by raffling himself off, writes the BOSTON AMERICAN a letter explaining his plan. He says:

"It is not good for man to live alone; but conditions to-day are such that he sometimes cannot help it. In the past I have taken care of invalid parents at considerable expense, so that now, on both heads named above, I believe I am entitled to the happiness of married life.

"One should, of course, marry in one's own right and on one's own terms. To marry, however, in this class requires money. I want to marry and would make an ideal husband, so as I have furnished, I have decided to offer myself as a prize in a guessing contest, as follows:

"I have placed a CERTAIN NUMBER in the hands of a reputable party for THIRTY DAYS any woman who in character and refined, in good health and physical condition, who has a good disposition or self-control, may, for $5 a chance, register a guess as to the number chosen.

"At the end of thirty days the number will be published and I will marry the winner.

"In case of failure, or more than one guessing the correct number, I am to have the privilege of choosing from among the contestants. The successful one will receive a good husband, and those who fall will be given stock in a company formed to exploit a valuable proposition.

"Each subscriber will thus receive value for her money, while one who is happily married.

"Subscribers should send description with name, or none of name. In order to obtain a wife and a fortune at the same time.

"The following is my description: American, age forty; 5 ft. 7 in.; 155 lbs.; hair and eyes brown, educated, cultured; health and physical condition perfect; strong, energetic, temperate; will drop any that is objectionable; her family very prominent; have brains, ability, ambition.

"What do the girl readers of the Home Page think of this remarkable method of obtaining a wife and a fortune at the same time?

FURNISHING A BEDROOM

To furnish a bedroom in a sensible and yet tasteful manner is a matter that requires some forethought and care. Much depends on the person who is to occupy it, and one would not think of putting large, heavy furniture in a child's room; and, in fact, the old-fashioned style of large, heavy furniture seems now quite out of date, and much lighter styles have taken its place.

If the room to be furnished is a very large one, then heavier furniture is perhaps preferable, so that the room will not look too bare.

Nowadays it is quite the rule to have a color scheme for the bedrooms, and very pretty effects can be obtained. In blue and white in the bedroom of a young girl, for the dressing table covers were made by using blue tulle and the room was in perfect order and an example of all that a girl's bedroom should be.

Two single beds, standing close side by side, were covered with blue and white coverings, the wall paper and decorative items were carried out in the same scheme, and everything about the room harmonized perfectly. That is the secret of carrying out a color scheme, and the result is all in harmony, and there are no glaring contrasts.

The Floor Coverings

The question arises as to whether carpets or linoleum should be laid on bedroom floors, the argument here, however, is so much healthier. It is certainly better to have a carpet, but it is perhaps not comfortable looking in a child's room.

"For the children's and servants' bedrooms it is decidedly better to have a carpet, for the floors, which can be bought in very pretty patterns, which are made to imitate the pattern of a high end of the room, and the room can be taken up and put down in a few minutes.

If carpets are used for bedrooms, it must be remembered that they should be laid on the beds, as dust gathers there and it is difficult to clean them up.

The draping of the windows is an important item in the appearance of a bedroom and it is well to make a harmonious scheme. The window curtains should be made of a material which is in harmony with the other things in the room, and perhaps nothing is better than a pair of drapes with white curtains, tastefully draped back from the window with certain rings to make the color more for the room.

The window look pretty, if after hanging the white curtains, a pair of colored ones are laid draped over them as they are hardly needed in the room.

The bedroom curtains should have free from the ground, and the curtains should be made of a material which is in harmony with the other things in the room, and perhaps nothing is better than a pair of drapes with white curtains, tastefully draped back from the window with certain rings to make the color more for the room.

TO CLEAN FLANNELS

Stains on white flannel or blankets may be removed by the application of a little pure glycerine mixed with oil of rose. Allow this to remain on for an hour, and then wash in a lather of hot soiled soap. All woollens should be washed in this way, and the result is better than if possible, it is best to use rain water.

TO WHITEN LINEN

A little pipevine dissolved in the water used in washing linen gives a great deal of labor and soap and cleanses the different fibers thoroughly. This method is especially useful in towels where outside bleaching is generally an impossible thing.

LEARN HOW TO CONVERSE

CONVERSATION, like every other art, is an account of something of which he knows, and he must be able to tell it in a way that will interest his hearer.

When you read a book mark the bright thoughts or useful facts and commit them to memory. When the book is closed, you will find something new to say about it to the next person you meet.

If you are a student of what you are reading, you will find something new to say about it to the next person you meet.

Russia Has Still to Fight HER OWN SOLDIERS

Men Do Not Like the Shame of Defeat, and Explaining the Defeat Will Come Hard to the Returning Fighters. DON'T TOUCH RUSSIAN BONDS!

It is the Russian people who are trying to keep his throne on its legs. You learn one day that the Caucasus is in revolt. The Russians are unable to put down revolution with the sword—and the various local races are set to fighting each other.

In Russia, you know, there are one hundred and forty-six races ruled by the Czar—forty perfectly distinct different nationalities. For a long time it has been the accepted policy to set the more ignorant masses against the Jews.

Jews have always been among the revolutionary leaders in Russia. To make the ignorant hate and murder the Jews was an excellent way of counteracting Jewish influence—the Russian Church has always understood that and has always fomented Jewish massacres.

What has been done for so long with the Jews is done now with other troublesome races. The Cossacks are encouraged to hate and slaughter the permanently rebellious Poles.

The Tatars have been put to murdering Armenians at Baku and elsewhere.

The Russian despotism, unable to deal with its problems, is driven to put race against race—hoping that the people will be kept busy killing each other—while the Czar gets back his breath and his wits and borrows enough money—from America possibly—to strengthen himself once more.

The Russian hope, however, is vain. For a while this promoting of race hatred may work. The foolish people will kill each other separately when they should be abolishing—unitedly—the Czar and his relatives.

But in the long run Russia will have to answer the People's question: "WHY WAS RUSSIA BEATEN BY THE SMALL JAPANESE NATION?" Sooner or later RUSSIA MUST BRING BACK TO THEIR HOMES THE HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF BEATEN, HUMILIATED SOLDIERS.

The thing will be put off. The men will be brought back in small bunches, and they will be treated almost decently, to mollify them. But they will all come home in time—and then Russian despotism must make its real fight.

It will then have to fight against a BAD REPORT IN EVERY RUSSIAN HOME.

The Russian soldier will say to the simple peasants that he was not beaten because HE WAS A COWARD. And the people will know that he tells the truth.

He will say that he was beaten because their Czar is a wretched failure.

He will say he was beaten because a stupid religious government gave him religious images to meet the Japanese with GOOD GUNS.

He will say that he was beaten because his leaders—all sharing the "divine right"—were drunkards, ignorant, arrogant, in every way inferior to the men whom they led and to the Japanese who opposed them.

From every home the Czar dragged his fighters—poor, ignorant men believing in HIM and in the foolish church stories of "Holy Russia" and the certainty of victory. Each family gave up a man who went hopefully and confidently, hugging his religious icon to his breast and confident that the Divine Power approved and was represented by the Czar.

To every home there will come back a man to tell a different story—or else—in a few hundreds of thousands of homes—there will be a vacant place to emphasize the bitter truth told by the householder.

Seven hundred thousand men went out to war confident in their Czar and in their brutally stupid and superstitious religious teachings. Five hundred thousand will come back to tell Russia that her ruler, her church, and her officers are failures and liars.

These are the men that Russia will have to fight. These are the men that will give to the revolutionary movement an advocate at every Russian fireside.

These are the men that will make the revolution so long dreamed of a blessed REALITY.

THESE ARE THE MEN THAT WILL REFUSE TO PAY THE MONEY THAT TRUSTING FOOLS LEND TO THE CZAR—when the Czar's power is overthrown.

We warn our readers again that these men—the whole fighting manhood of Russia—are to be reckoned with in the buying of Russian bonds.

Buy Russian bonds and you make no INVESTMENT.

You simply make a bet that the Czar will keep his place, despite the bitter resentment and bitter truth telling of five hundred thousand DEFEATED RUSSIAN MEN.

We have talked with the accredited leaders of the Russian Revolutionary movement. We have been asked to spread broadcast their fair warning that, once placed in power, they will repudiate every dollar of indebtedness incurred by the Czar to oppress his people.

This newspaper has only the greatest friendship and admiration for the Russian people. It is a great people, and the future of the world's achievement is largely in the underdeveloped possibilities of that wonderful nation that will be young when our race shall be old.

We warn Americans against buying Russian bonds because our FRIENDSHIP FOR REAL RUSSIA is great, and because it is our duty to warn Americans against lending the money of a free nation to a stupid despot.

If they do lend the money they will lose it.

For victorious revolutionary Russia will refuse to pay the Czar's debts. And if you lend your money to the Czar—taking his bonds from any agent whatever—the people of Russia will say to you one day—and the day is not far off:

"You lent your money to the Czar to help him keep down his people. Your money failed to do its work. We have won. You have lost with the Czar to whom you gave your money. Go to HIM if you want it back. We warned you—take the consequences!"

LEAVE RUSSIAN BONDS ALONE!

Dispatches from Russia give scant news.

Information from the inside of that great empire is like the information from the inside of a big prison. The mails, the wires AND THE PRISONERS are watched. It is hard for the truth to get out.

Yet enough leaks through to give some idea of the problem that faces the Czar—and the wiser men like Witte that are trying to keep his throne on its legs.

For a long time it has been the accepted policy to set the more ignorant masses against the Jews.
